

TOWER DINES KAISER

American Ambassador Entertains Emperor.

ADVOCATES TEA FOR TROOPS

His Majesty Discusses Anti-Liquor Laws of United States and Says His Soldiers Prefer Hot Beverage to Beer—He Declares There Is Still Much Room for Improvement.

Berlin, March 8.—At the dinner given at the American Embassy last evening, in honor of Emperor William, twenty-four covers were laid, including eight for ladies. Mrs. Tower, wife of the Ambassador, sat at the Kaiser's right, and Baroness von Kettler, widow of the German Minister who was killed at Peking, on his left. Mrs. Burgess, wife of Prof. Burgess, dean of Columbia University, sat at the right of Mr. Tower.

The Kaiser brought a large bunch of dark lilacs and violets for Mrs. Tower, and two photographs of himself in the historical costume he wore at the crown prince's fancy dress ball. He also brought souvenirs to the Tower children, and a collection of games, which were presented before the dinner, his majesty having had them summoned downstairs in order to receive the gifts.

Much of the Emperor's conversation was given to the American military and naval attacks. Among other matters he referred to the introduction into German military equipment of huge tea samovars. He said the soldiers greatly appreciated drinking hot tea, preferring it to beer.

He inquired as to the anti-liquor laws of the various States in America, showing familiarity with them. He suggested that although these laws were highly beneficial there was much room for improvement in them, owing to the practice of men, who, being unable to obtain alcoholic drinks in their own State, frequently going to low saloons on the borders of the States. He also spoke of the increasingly wide cultivation of potatoes in Germany, and the extensive use made of the tubers for the manufacture of alcohol.

RABBI SEES JEWISH GAINS.

Expects Many Synagogues to Be Built in Next Ten Years.

"The very air of America smells of freedom," said Rabbi Abram Simon, before the regular Friday night service of the Washington Hebrew congregation at the Jewish Temple on Eighth street, last evening. The subject of his lecture was "The Purpose of the Synagogue."

"This is a land of beautiful opportunities, a land of plenty," he continued. "The Jew has taken another turn in this country with his synagogue and his congregation. Within the next ten years more synagogues will be built and more Jews will take an active interest in religion than has ever before been known. The Jew has been in the ghetto and was let out of the ghetto to a free land and every industry has felt his influence. This has come about by the Jew meeting all obstacles, fighting the difficulties, and conquering the obstacles that stood in his way. We hardly know our own possibilities. Practically speaking, we are all wells in which have been poured our pleasures, our disappointments, and our tragedies."

FURNISH CLEW TO MURDERER.

Bloody Finger Prints May Enable Police to Capture Slay.

St. Louis, March 8.—The only clew to the murder of Mrs. Kate Quernheim, who was shot and beaten to death in her home last night, was the bloody mark of a hand upon the victim was grasped by the slayer and crimson prints of fingers on the clothing near by. The murderer had made the most careful precautions against clews, but overlooked these. Every window and door in the house of death was locked. Although the struggle progressed through several rooms and into the basement, no finger marks or bloody stains were found on the floor. Landlady Mrs. Quernheim was a daughter of the late Charles Diehn, a retired capitalist. The police expect to use these bloody finger marks as a clew to the murderer. The late Edward Bergmann, twenty-nine years old, who is also wanted for burglarizing his mother's home, is charged with the murder.

PROF. HENRY D. TODD DEAD.

Naval Officer with Varied Career Expires at Annapolis, Md.

Annapolis, Md., March 8.—Prof. Henry David Todd, U. S. N., who had a varied naval career, died at his home in Annapolis this morning, aged sixty-nine years. Prof. Todd, who had been a line officer in the navy and reached the rank of lieutenant commander after serving through the civil war with distinction before resigning, re-entered the service as a professor of mathematics, and had served both at the Naval Academy and in the Naval Observatory at Washington. In the latter place he had charge of the compilation of the Nautical Almanac. He resigned from the line in 1876 and entered the service again in 1877. He was first assigned as an instructor at the Naval Academy as head of the department of physics and chemistry.

Prof. Todd entered the Academy as a midshipman on May 28, 1853, being appointed from the United States Navy. He is survived by a wife and one son and one daughter. Mrs. Todd, before her marriage, Miss Flora Johnson, a daughter of the famous Chancellor John Johnson. The surviving children are Capt. Henry David Todd, Jr., U. S. A., now at Fort Banks, Miss., and Miss Mary Johnson Todd, of Annapolis.

Admiral Schley Faints.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Baltimore, Md., March 8.—Admiral Winfield Scott Schley fainted in the lodge-room of the Masonic Temple last night. He recovered in a few minutes, and later made an address. Admiral Schley came to Baltimore to attend a banquet given to the surviving children of Capt. Henry David Todd, Jr., U. S. A., now at Fort Banks, Miss., and Miss Mary Johnson Todd, of Annapolis.

Forty Perish in Mexican Wrecks.

Mexico City, Mexico, March 8.—Reports from Vera Cruz and other points along the Gulf coast say that many small boats were wrecked; and more than forty persons are known to have been drowned in the severe norther which prevailed a few days ago. A number of vessels are still missing and the casualty list may be increased.

King Alfonso Has Influenza.

Madrid, March 8.—King Alfonso is confined to his bed by an attack of influenza, due to a chill he had suffered while playing golf. His condition is not serious. His physicians predict his recovery in a day or two.

RADICALS VICTORS IN DOUMA.

Acrimonious Debate Over Amnesty for Political Prisoners.

St. Petersburg, March 8.—The first skirmish for control of the Opposition in the lower house of Parliament was won today by the radicals, who compelled the Constitutional Democrats to abandon their candidates for vice presidents and accept the nominees of the Radical coalition.

During the afternoon the Socialists in question discussed the immediate introduction of a demand for general amnesty, and it is possible that this may be done at tomorrow's session, which is likely to precipitate a stormy scene, but this afternoon the house was occupied with the election of the vice presidents, the secretary, and the latter's four assistants.

M. Berezin, of Saratov, a newspaper man, and a member of the Group of the Left, received 34 votes for first vice president to 101 votes cast for his opponent, and M. Posnansky, of Kharkoff, a lawyer, and member of the Left party, received 28 votes for second vice president, to 107 votes cast for his opponent, Prof. Kapoustine, of Kazan University, the Octobrist leader, was among the defeated candidates. This double victory for the Left was loudly cheered.

M. Chelnokoff, Constitutional Democrat, of Moscow, was elected secretary of the house.

Toward the close of the session the question of amnesty to political prisoners was precipitated an acrimonious controversy, which, however, was fought out between the factions of the Left and did not reach the floor of the house.

CLAPP WILL CASE DISCUSSED

Daughter Tells Why Document Should Not Be Probated.

Mrs. Robert C. Hall Says Her Father Was Reconciled to Her Marriage.

Allegheny, Pa., March 8.—Mrs. Robert C. Hall, in referring to the promised content of the will of her father, John M. Clapp, said that the objection was that the will should not be probated in Washington, but in Lakewood, N. Y., where her father maintained his residence.

Asked if it was true that her share should be held in trust for her children because he had opposed her marriage, she replied that there had been some objections to her marriage, but this did not exist at the time of death, or for several years before. He had become fully reconciled, she said, and had given Mr. Hall large sums of money to invest for him. All these investments turned out splendidly.

"As to my contesting the will I do not know what will be done," said she. "I would not like to say that it will be contested. That is all I think I should say in the matter."

Mr. Clapp was born in Tidbits, Warren county, N. Y., and died October 17, 1898. He was originally in the iron business with his father, but later became an independent oil operator. He became very wealthy and retired twenty years ago, living at Lakewood in the summer and in Washington in the winter.

NO CHANGE AT PROVIDENCE.

Senator Aldrich's Visit Fails to Produce Results in Balloting.

Providence, March 8.—The eighth week of balloting for United States Senator commenced to-day with the thirty-fourth ballot.

Senator Aldrich's visit to Providence was apparently fruitless so far as its effect on the deadlock was concerned, for not a single vote has been changed. The talk of a conference is smoldering down and the attending to the balloting.

DRESSER READY TO TELL ALL.

Promoter Threatens to Expose Scandals of Shipbuilding Trust.

New York, March 8.—Daniel LeRoy Dresser, after having been discharged from bankruptcy the other day at the request of his creditors, said he was going to get after the men who, he charges, were responsible as the originators of the shipbuilding scheme for his financial downfall. He has named as especially worthy of exposure, Col. John J. McCook and Charles B. Alexander, of the law firm of Alexander & Green; Alvin W. Krech, John W. Young, James H. Hyde, and the Mercantile Trust company.

Mr. Dresser makes grave charges against the men named, and says he is ready now to lay the whole story of the shipbuilding scandal before the public.

THE SONG OF THE DITCH.

(With profuse apologies to "The Song of the Shirt," and compliments to Mr. Oliver.)

With fingers weary and worn,
With eyelids heavy and red,
A man that had labored all night
Sings thus of his pen and pad—
Bidi! bidi! bidi!
For avenge the woe of dirt,
And still with a voice of dolorous pitch
He sings his "Song of the Ditch!"
Bidi! bidi! bidi!
While the cock is crowing aloft;
And bid! bid! bid!
Till the stars shine through the roof
It's O! to be a slave
Along with the hapless Turk,
Where contractor has no'er a soul to spare
If this is Christian work.
Bidi! bidi! bidi!
Till the brain begins to swim;
Bidi! bidi! bidi!
Till the eyes are heavy and dim!
Stream, and Leak, and Dam,
Dam, and Leak, and Stream,
Till one of the sides I fall asleep,
And make them on in my dream!
Oh, tell my brother, dear!
Oh, men, with mothers and wives!
It is not the paper you're wearing out,
But other bodies' lives!
Bidi! bidi! bidi!
In poverty, hunger, and dirt,
Bidding a slave to do a double bid,
A slave to cover my butt!
But why do I talk of bids?
Men! slanders to haunt the lone,
I hardly fear their terrible shape,
They seem so like my own.
The world is so like my own;
Forty thousand I've buried deep,
Oh, tell! that bids should be so dear,
And flesh and blood so cheap!
Bidi! bidi! bidi!
Bidi! bidi! bidi! flags;
And what are my wages? I stand forlorn,
My bid's rejected—my dollar's gone,
A charter—a broken Co.,
And a feeling so bleak, that Congress I'd thank
To pay me what they owe.
Bidi! bidi! bidi!
In the chill December light,
Bidi! bidi! bidi!
When the weather is warm and bright,
While underneath the eaves
The other bidders sleep,
As if to show their scheming backs
And twist me with the Thing.
With fingers weary and worn,
With eyelids heavy and red,
A man that has labored all night,
Sings thus of his pen and pad.
Bidi! bidi! bidi!
In poverty, hunger, and dirt,
And still with a voice of dolorous pitch
He sings his "Song of the Ditch."

Deserted Husband Causes Apprehension of Deserters, but Later Decides He No Longer Wants Wife and Institutes Proceedings for Divorce—Pair Ran Away Before.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Harrisonburg, Va., March 8.—Norval L. Jones, a well known resident of Pendleton County, W. Va., has instituted suit for divorce from his wife, who eloped with George W. Waybright, a former minister of the German Baptist Church, and until recently a member of the County Court of Pendleton, Waybright and Mrs. Johnson are said to have started for Nebraska, where, it is said, they expect to reside. Both Waybright and Mrs. Johnson are past middle age, and the former leaves a wife and several children, all of whom are grown. The parties all reside in the same neighborhood near Franklin, the county seat of Pendleton County, forty miles west of Harrisonburg.

Waybright a few months ago and drove to Horton, Randolph County, the next railroad station, thirty miles from their home, over rough mountain roads covered with snow. Mr. Johnson was away from home and did not discover his wife's absence until his return later in the day. He learned that she and Waybright had started in the direction of Horton, and he telephoned to the chief of police at that place to arrest them.

The couple was taken into custody and held over night. The deserted husband reconsidered, and informed the authorities that he did not care to have his wife back home. They left Horton for the West. Mr. Johnson went to Franklin immediately and employed an attorney to institute proceedings for a divorce.

Once before Waybright and Mrs. Johnson left home together, but returned and sought to their respective homes. Waybright then succeeded in effecting a reconciliation between Johnson and his wife.

George E. Sipe, special master commissioner of the United States Circuit Court for the Western District of Virginia, today rendered his decision in the celebrated Baker chocolate case which has been pending in the Federal courts for ten years. Walter Baker & Co., of Boston, brought suit against W. H. Baker, of Winchester, alleging that the defendant had infringed upon certain copyrighted signs, labels, &c., of the plaintiff. The Boston company secured an injunction in 1896. Mr. Sipe was appointed special commissioner to ascertain what damages were due the plaintiffs, and his decision today allows them a total of $22,680.94.

WHIPPING POST RESURRECTED.

Old Form of Punishment to Be Meted Out in Baltimore.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Baltimore, March 8.—The city's whipping post, which was relegated to the store-room of the Baltimore City Jail about seven years ago, has been placed in position in the main rotunda of the jail by Warden Hook in preparation for the whipping of Sadley Brooks, colored, who, at some time as yet undetermined, within the next five weeks, will receive nine lashes upon his bare back. Brooks was sentenced to receive the cat-o'-nine-tails by Judge Wright on the charge of repeatedly beating his wife.

At the sheriff's office it was said that the date of the whipping had not yet been set, but it is known that a cat-o'-nine-tails has been secured and the whipping will be performed with it.

RECALLS FAMOUS NAVAL DUEL.

Maj. Ramsay Calls Attention to Anniversary of Monitor-Merrimac.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Baltimore, Md., March 8.—To-morrow will be the anniversary of the battle between the Merrimac and the Monitor in Hampton Roads in 1862. Among the few survivors of the engagement is Maj. H. Ashton Ramsay, who was chief engineer of the Merrimac, and is now a resident of Baltimore.

In connection with the memory of the engagement forty-five years ago, Maj. Ramsay suggests the erection of a monument in the new park at Fort Monroe.

NEW THEATER FOR BALTIMORE

Independents Plan Erection of Playhouse in Monumental City.

Baltimore, March 8.—Negotiations are in progress for the control of a piece of property upon which it is proposed to erect a theater for the use of the Shuberts and other independent theatrical interests.

According to the present plans, it is proposed to erect a theater about the size of the Academy. A representative of the independent managers is expected in Baltimore within the next few days, when, it is thought, definite steps will be taken.

Defense Opens in Bateman Case.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Belair, Md., March 8.—The State concluded its side of the Howard Bateman embezzlement case this morning, later recalling Captain Hollister and Clerk Conley of the treasurer's office with reference to cashing checks for Bateman. Mr. Young made the opening statement for the defense, which will be the incapacity of Mr. Bateman because of a drug habit, and his failure to make proper entries on account of the state of his mind, due to forgetfulness.

EDUCATORS' PAY RAISED.

Maryland Agricultural College Trustees Hold Busy Meeting.

Special to The Washington Herald.

College Park, Md., March 8.—The board of trustees of the Maryland Agricultural College met in quarterly session at the college to-day. State Treasurer Murray Vandiver presided, with Dr. Joseph R. Owens, secretary. Other trustees present were Comptroller Gordon T. Atkinson, C. H. Stanley, David Seibert, F. C. Goldsboro, E. G. Merryman, Charles A. Councilman, Dr. R. S. Hill, Robert Crane, and Charles H. Evans. The by-laws of the college were changed so as to provide for monthly instead of quarterly meetings.

Prof. F. B. Bomberger was appointed librarian at a salary of $100 per year. G. T. Weldon, assistant entomologist, had his salary increased from $700 to $900 per annum. The report of the agricultural committee, offered by Mr. Goldsboro, recommends the erection of a new dairy and feeding barn at the experiment station. Plans have been approved for the building, and the money was appropriated by the legislature of 1906 and is now available.

The salary of B. E. Porter, assistant agronomist, was increased from $750 to $900 per year. The contract for printing was awarded to Thomas & Evans, of Baltimore. E. I. Licht, assistant pathologist, tendered his resignation, which was accepted, and E. P. Walls, a graduate of the college, was appointed temporarily in his stead. Mr. Walls will enter Johns Hopkins University in the fall.

MAKES MARVELOUS ESCAPE

Hugh N. Page Crushed Between Steamship and Pier.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Newport News, Va., March 8.—Hugh N. Page, president of the Water Front Coal Company, of Norfolk, and largely interested in West Virginia coal mines, had a remarkable escape from death this morning. When the Old Dominion liner Ocracoke was leaving Mr. Page attempted to jump ashore. He missed his footing, but caught hold of a pile and thus avoided a plunge into the water. The steamer caught him between its side and the pile, his head being held tightly between the two wooden surfaces. With the movement of the steamer his body revolved. Several men on the pier caught the unfortunate man, and when the steamer pulled away they prevented him from falling into the river, where he undoubtedly would have perished. He was taken to the pier A under full steam. Dr. S. W. Hobson treated Mr. Page, who retained consciousness, and was able to return to his home in the evening. The man sustained two long scalp cuts and a number of other bruises about the head and face. In Norfolk, he was removed to his home.

Tennessee Side of Bristol Goes Overwhelmingly Dry.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Bristol, Tenn., March 8.—The whisky forces met their Waterloo in today's election by the vastest vote of the century on the Tennessee side of the city saloons were ordered out under the Pendleton law. Only seven votes were cast for them, as against 529 for prohibition.

The prohibition, consisting of 5,000 men, women and children, paraded the streets with screaming white banners.

LEE MEMORIAL DISCUSSED.

Gov. Swanson Addresses Meeting at Richmond Chamber of Commerce.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Richmond, Va., March 8.—A meeting to consider the establishment of a permanent memorial to Gen. Robert E. Lee was addressed by the chamber of commerce today by Gov. Swanson, President Denny, of Washington and Lee, and others. No final decision was reached.

The memorial may take the form of a permanent endowment of the chair of American history in Washington and Lee. The movement follows a suggestion made by President Roosevelt recently.

Demurrer Filed Against Railway.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Annapolis, Md., March 8.—Robert Moss, of Annapolis, local counsel for the Washington, Baltimore and Annapolis Electric Railway Company, today filed a demurrer to the petition of the Maryland Electric Railway Company, which seeks to restrain the defendants from laying its tracks through a small piece of property in the Fifth district, near Baltimore, owned by the short line. The demurrer states that a court of equity has no jurisdiction to grant the relief prayed for, inasmuch as the ground to be traversed by said tracks is not worth $20. The case will be heard in a few days.

Stepote Afriend to Leave Court.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Danville, Va., March 8.—After being acquitted at 11:30 last night of assault on Miss Gladys Shelton, of Amherst County, Herbert Steptoe, colored, was loath to leave the courtroom, where there were a number of relatives of the girl and witnesses who came from Amherst and who believed him guilty. After the courtroom was cleared the negro was escorted to the suburbs of the city by two police officers and turned loose. He will make his tracks scarce in Amherst County in the future.

Negro Suspected of Murder of Charles T. Smith Expected to Be Brought from Harrisburg, Pa., Today. Place of Incarceration to Be Kept Secret to Prevent Lynching.

WASHINGTON HERALD BUREAU.

(Bell Telephone 113.)
Corner of Prince and Royal Streets.

Alexandria, Va., March 8.—Opening volleys from the stump in the fight now being waged for the Democratic Congressional nomination in this district were fired yesterday in the southeastern end of the district, when three of the four candidates in the field—Judge Charles E. Nicol, R. Lindsey Gordon, and Charles C. Carlin—addressed the voters of King George County at the county courthouse. From now on until the primary, the date of which has not yet been suggested, the candidates are expected to appear on the stump singly and together from time to time at the various county courthouses, particularly on court day occasions. There has been considerable speculation as to when the primary election will be ordered.

Will Bring Back Johnson.

Officers Ferguson and Roberts went to Harrisburg, Pa., to-day with requisition papers for William Johnson, colored, on the charge of having murdered Charles T. Smith in this city last October. It is expected that they will return with him to-morrow. Just where the man will be incarcerated will not be made public for the present.
